REBELS ONCE MORE ROUTED WITH HEAVY LOSS, SAY REPORTS

Mengro Dispatches From Torreon District Say
Villa is Defeated.

DECLARE HE IS RETREATING

General Chao, Military Governor of Chihuahua, Unanimous Telegram Office For News That Never Comes No Definite Word From the Front.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 25.—This message from Mexico City was received at the embassy here today.
"Rebels once more routed and reportedly on Gomez Palacio with heavy losses while trying to approach Torreon."

JUAREZ, March 25.—An atmosphere of nervous anxiety enveloped Constitutionalist sympathizers today over the possible fate of General Villa and his 12,000 followers who at last reports were engaged in desperate fighting at Gomez Palacio, a suburb of Torreon.

For two days no definite word came from the front. Not even a courier has penetrated the desert between Torreon and Chihuahua. News dispatches from Mexico City received last night declaring that the Villa Department had issued a bulletin to the effect that Villa was in full retreat, are not believed, but the report causes Rebel officers to make further inquiries for news from the battlefield.

General Chao, military governor of Chihuahua, points the military telegraph operators day and night in the hope of a message from Villa telling the fortunes of war. No explanation was offered by Rebel officers of the fact that communication ceased after the attack on Gomez Palacio began while they came freely during Villa's southward march.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The State Department had only a report from El Paso saying that up to yesterday afternoon results "were still undetermined." Other dispatches reported there was absolutely no foundation for stories that danger threatened five Americans in the district of Chihuahua. Other reports indicated that all foreigners within the territory under Constitutional control being protected.

Consul General at Nuevo Laredo just over the Rio Grande reported today that an American boy in Laredo, Texas, was wounded in the chest by a shot fired from the Mexican side.

SUGGESTION MEETING

Big Turnout of Citizens Expected at Tonight's Meeting.

A large turnout of citizens is expected at tonight's "suggestion" meeting in the council chamber, when the proposed $100,000 bond issue to cover outstanding obligations and provide for street improvements will be discussed from every angle.

Grounds for every announcement that it is open to suggestions as to what streets should be improved as it is planned to submit a schedule of improvements to the voters in July.
The bond issue will be made of the city hall where it will be possible to accommodate a large number of people.

The bond issue is probably the most vital question before the city at the present time and council wants the approval of the citizens in its effort to increase the financial situation.

In view of the fact that the next of a session of the council is urgent, council will hold the meeting at 8 o'clock the election before the spring primary in May. The expense of contracting a special election will be considerable, but many citizens believe that it would be justifiable under the circumstances.

Following the suggestion meeting tonight, council will meet in special session tomorrow night. At that time it is said that the police situation, which has been causing considerable worry to the members, will be finally cleared up. Pending the adjustment, the police force is one man short, only one man having been put on when two of the patrolmen resigned several weeks ago.

AFTER MOONSHINERS.

Revenue Officers Will Inquire West Virginia Counties.

Special to The Courier.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., March 25.
John Sparrow, deputy revenue collector, by escorted by a large body of deputy United States marshals left today for a trip through Morgan, Mineral, Tucker and Pendleton counties in an effort to clean out the moonshiners believed to be operating in that section.
Among other places it is supposed to investigate "Smoke Hole" in Grant district which few revenue officers have ever entered.

Out After Illness.

Harmen Hay of the West Side was able to be out today after having been confined to his home for a week with the grip.

CHILD RUN DOWN BY CAR HAS MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Little Dunbar Girl Struck and Bruised Aside But Only Slightly Injured.

Little Sabattha Molotarno, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Numaia Molotarno of Dunbar, was given the fright of her life when she ran into a West from street car on Connellsville street at 11:15 this morning. She thought she had been badly hurt, while the crew was certain that the child had been run over.

Conductor Wilkerson was running the car at the time. He applied the brakes in such a manner as to bring the car to an instant stop. Then he and Molotarno turned back and many of the passengers got out, expecting to find the little body wedged beneath the wheels.

The little girl wasn't under the front truck. Neither was she under the rear wheels, as she disclosed that she was having a painful cut in the back of her head washed at a nearby pump by two little companions. She was crying bitterly, but examination disclosed that the injury was not serious. She suffered so much from fright that she would not let the conductor or motorman take her to a doctor.

Sabattha had been in a store buying a lollipop. In her hurry to get home she did not look where she was going and darted from behind a wagon directly in the path of Car No. 705. She was struck by the front of the car and rolled clear of the tracks by the driver. The conductor heard a scream and applied the brakes. The fact of the sudden stop almost convincing the passengers that the wheels had gone over the girl's body. By the time the crew could get out the girl had disappeared and it was some minutes before she was found at the pump in the rear of a Dunbar business building.

TRAMPS MUST WALK

Mayor Releases Train Riders; to Go in Opposite Directions.

Thirteen prisoners were given hearings before the mayor this morning.
Six train riders were arrested by Special Officers Wilkerson of the Baltimore & Ohio, and Delmonico of the Pennsylvania railroads yesterday, four of whom were negroes.

Mayor Marlatta sentenced them in two. The first two negroes he had tucked up until 1 o'clock and the other two until 3 o'clock. At the end of the hours assigned to them they were to be released and started in opposite directions, walking.

John O'Neil of Pittsburgh and Isaac Gould of Philadelphia were locked up until 11 and 1 o'clock respectively.
Then they were to be released and started in opposite directions, also walking.

William McCarty of New Canby was arrested on a charge of drunkenness and begging on the streets. McCarty is allowed to have put a glove over his hand and saying that he was crippled begged for alms. He the mayor that the trouble was with his shoulder and that the glove was worn to keep the blood in circulation.

JOHN TYLER COMING

Returned Tramp to Speak Here on April 5 in Colonial Theatre.

John Tyler of New York will speak to men in the Colonial Theatre on Friday, April 5, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Mr. Tyler is said to be the most remarkable convert of the McAnisley Mission. He is a great student of President John Tyler. After having an excellent education, he became a drunkard and dissipated a large fortune. He followed this life for 42 years during which time he traveled around the world five times. For 45 years he was a bushman in Australia.

Mr. Tyler in his talk will tell the story of his life, including many of his thrilling experiences. He has spoken in the largest cities in this country and also in London and Paris.

MYSTERIOUS SHOT.

Bullet Crashes Through Window of Pennlinger Residence.

Special to The Courier.
MOUNT PLEASANT, March 25.— Mystery surrounds the firing of a shot through the window of the residence of the Pennlinger about 6 o'clock last evening. The bullet lodged in the window sash.

The police have been investigating the case and they are inclined to believe that the shot was fired from the direction of Washington street.

MAY DIRECT MONUMENT.

Uniontown Takes Steps to Place Memorial at Freeman's Grave.

A movement has been begun in Uniontown to raise a fund for a monument to the memory of Volney Lawlor, the fireman who sacrificed his life in the street fire on Monday. A committee has already been appointed to solicit subscriptions.

The funeral of Lawlor which was attended by over 5,000 persons.

Days' Excursion Score.

Harry P. Altkorth for a number of years connected with the Connellsville branch of the Westmoreland Grocery Company, has purchased a grocery store and is conducting it for many years by J. H. Lehnart. Mr.
Altkorth formerly resided at Greenburg.

Visited Schools.

Dr. Hies a member of the Scottsdale school board, was visiting the schools today. He came especially to inspect the department of domestic science and manual training.

General Funston, Uncle Sam's New "Watchdog" in Charge of 10,000 Troops at Border Camp

General Frederick Funston is the new commander of the United States troops at the great border camp, Texas City, Tex. He was placed in charge of the troops there to succeed Major General Carter during a recent shift in important army officers.

MRS. NEWMYER WILLS SOUTH SIDE HOME TO HER DAUGHTER

Remainder of Estate to be Divided Between Two Surviving Children.

SON'S SHARE HELD IN TRUST

Dayton Title and Trust Company to Have Safe Charge; Trust is to Continue Until His Death; Mrs. Evans is Named Executrix Without Bond.

UNIONTOWN, March 25.—In the will of Mrs. Mary D. Newmyer filed for probate yesterday, the homestead in South Pittsburgh street, and its furnishings, are left to the only daughter, Mrs. Isabel Newmyer Evans, while the residue of the real estate is to be sold and divided, one half to be given to Mrs. Evans and the remainder to be placed with the Fayette Title & Trust Company. In Uniontown, as trustees, for the son, Thomas D. Newmyer. The personal property, other than the belongings to the homestead, is also to be sold and the proceeds to be divided.

Relative to the portion to be held in trust will be specified that, "So much of the income therefrom as the said trustee may deem requisite shall be applied from time to time to the payment of the reasonable living expenses of my son, Thomas D. New-myer, and his children, which payments may be made direct to my said son when and only in the judgment of the said trustee such action is wise and judicious for his and his said children's best interests. So much of the income therefrom as may be necessary and, if required, a reasonable amount of the principal, not, however, to exceed one-tenth thereof, shall be expended by the said trustee in the education of the children of my said son Thomas. The amount to be applied, subject to the limitation above specified, shall rest in the sound judgment of the trustee."

The trust thus created is to continue until the death of Thomas D.
Newmyer and his wife, Berdie, and until the youngest child of Thomas shall attain the age of 21 years; or in the event of his death before attaining the age of 21, then until such time as it would, if living, have reached that age. At that time the money then in the hands of the trustee is to be divided equally among the children.

In case all the children having died, leaving no heirs, the fund is to be devoted to the Christian Church of Connellsville to be used as an endowment fund, the income derived therefrom to be used toward the support of the church.

Mrs. Isabel Newmyer Evans is a widow, without bond. The will was executed July 8, 1910. No estimate of the value of the estate is given.
The most valuable pieces are the homestead and the Trans-Allegheny Hotel.

No New Patients.
No new patients were admitted to the Cottage State Hospital over night.

TRAINS NOW MOVING OVER DIVISION TIED UP BY MEN'S STRIKE

Twenty-Two of Them Take Out Coke From Lower Region.

PLACING EMPTIES AT PLANTS

Conditions, Expected to be Normal Within a Day or So; Pennsy Has Laid Off 15,000 Men in Past Three Months; New Reinforcement Policy.

That normal conditions will prevail on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad, tied up by the strike of 600 yard men, within the next day or so is the statement of officials today. At Uniontown 100-ton freight Agent E. P. Tinsdale stated that the outlook is brighter than at any time since the strike began. Traffic is being moved over the division and the various coke plants are able to operate after having been tied up for days.

Yesterday 22 train loads of coke were moved from the plants, which had been idle since the strike began.
Some of this was taken over the Monongahela division, and the rest over the Southwest branch.

Today and tomorrow empty cars will be placed. They will be welcomed at the plants where mechanical loading devices are employed. At these plants it has been impossible to operate because the coke is handled direct from the oven to the car, and cannot be stocked. At the plants where the coke is loaded by hand it has been possible to operate, because the coke was stocked.

Railroad officials were endeavoring today to clear the accumulation of merchandise freight at Uniontown and other points on the division, and expected to have most of it in transit by night.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—Confirmation was had from the officers of the Pennsylvania railroad today of the report that the company within the last three months had laid off 15,000 employees on the lines east of Pittsburgh in carrying out its policy of "retrenchment."

It is said that about 40,000 of the remaining 125,000 employees have been placed on shorter time.

Two hundred clerks in the general office in this city have been laid off within a day or two. Some weeks ago the company took off several employees through trains and it was stated today that further curtailment in the passenger train service is being worked out. According to the report which the company confirms the orders for retrenchment and economy cover improvements and extensions, work upon which has either been stopped or reduced.

WRECK BLOWN UP

Hulk of Sunkin Limer Manned by Revenue Cutter.

Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., March 25.—The wreck of the old Dominion liner Monroe, sunk in January by the Monitor & Minkler packet Nantuxet has been blown up by the revenue cutter Gardner which returned to port here today. "Four explosions of ammonium nitrate" all of the wreck, which was a menace to navigation and the coastal lane is again free for deep ships.

No bodies were brought to the surface and that the statements of the divers that they had been swept out by the strong submarine current were verified. The work of destroying the wreck was spectacular. Tons of water and debris from the sunken ship shot high into the air with every charge.

LIVE STOCK PERISH.

Cattle and Chickens Consumed When Barnet Burn at Alice's Burned.

Special to The Courier.

MISSOURI, March 25.—A fire of mysterious origin destroyed the barn of J. W. Bennett near Alice about 9 o'clock last night. A large quantity of grain, hay and produce was destroyed and four cows, six head of young cattle and 300 chickens were consumed.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett who were alone at home when the fire broke out, were able to lead the horses out but the rest of the stock perished. An open door leads to the supposition that the fire may have been of incendiary origin.

B. & O. PROMOTIONS.

John McWhorter Succeeds D. F. Harley as Yardmaster.

John McWhorter, night general yardmaster, has been promoted to general yardmaster for the Baltimore & Ohio, succeeding D. F. Harley, who resigned.

Mr. McWhorter's successor has not yet been appointed. Mr. McWhorter has been in the service of the company for some time and was deserving of his promotion.

JUDGE EWING SINKING.

Head of Public Service Commission Is Sinking.

UNIONTOWN, March 25.—The condition of Judge Nathaniel Ewing, president of the Public Service Commission of Pennsylvania, was considered critical this morning.

Judge Ewing has been in ill health for some time and recently has been sinking slowly.

STABBING VICTIM HAS BUT SLIGHT CHANCE OF RECOVERY

Italians Threaten Harm to Negro If Caught Due So He Is Taken to Jail.

Joseph Cadario, the Italian who was stabbed yesterday at noon by William Tolliver, is still in a critical condition at the Cottage State Hospital, and today at noon it was stated by the hospital authorities that his chances for recovery were very slight.

An operation performed last night revealed the fact that the knife had come through a part of the wall of the stomach and punctured the liver.
Cadario is conscious.

William Tolliver, the negro who did the stabbing, was taken to Uniontown to jail yesterday evening after Chief Rothler had heard that threats of violence had been made by the Italians.

The chief hired a taxicab in which he took his prisoner as far as Dunbar.
There they boarded a train and proceeded to Uniontown. The chief headed threats being made by the Italians and was informed from reliable sources that if the wounded man died his countrymen would at once mob the police station.

WOMEN ENTHUSIASTIC

Make Better Progress Than Men, Physical Director Says.

The last women's gymnastic class was held last evening at the Y. M.
C. A. with about 50 present. The members have made excellent progress during the past five weeks, and have completely mastered the exercises. Several men also learned how to swim and nearly all others have made some progress in the art. All are opposed to the discontinuation of the classes.

Physical Director Everhart stated that more progress had been made by women's classes than in the men's and boys' department. He desires that if as much enthusiasm was shown by the men and boys as is shown by the ladies the present building would not be large enough for the needs of the city.

STRIKERS DRIVEN OFF.

Colliers Miners, Pledge Access River to Stonewall, O.

By Associated Press.

STONEWALL, O., March 25.—Officers of the United Mine Workers of America came today to advise the striking miners from Colliers, W.
Va., who were last night driven from their camp on the property of the West Virginia & Pittsburgh Coal Company across the Ohio river to this place.

Petitions were prepared to President Wilson and Governor Hatfield asking the Federal and State authorities to intervene and allow them to occupy a camp in West Virginia. Sheriff Patterson of Brooke county had a large force of deputies on duty at the mines.

WED IN PITTSBURGH.

Miss Ethel Potter Bride of William B. Strickler.

The marriage of Miss Ethel Potter and William B. Strickler of Uniontown, which occurred yesterday in Pittsburgh, came as a great surprise to their many friends. The bride has resided in Connellsville virtually all her life and was a clerk at Kohlmeier's store. She was on duty Tuesday and on leaving the store Tuesday night made no mention of her coming wedding.

The bridegroom was owner of the Olympic Theatre up until today when he disposed of his business. Mr. and Mrs. Strickler returned to Connellsville and will be married at a street car for Uniontown where they will reside.

ANOTHER BREAK EGG.

Vanderbilt Man's Hen Lays the Strongest One Yet.

A freak egg was laid by a hen of the White Orpington breed, owned by Frank Schneider of Vanderbit. It weighs four ounces, is 6 1/2 inches around the center and 8 1/2 inches around the ends. Mr. Schneider has placed the egg in the Vanderbit dispatch and much interest in the expected chick is evidenced by his Vanderbilt neighbors.

Deaved Rock owned by Fred Yoder of the West Side, recently laid an egg that he thought held the record for size and weight but Mr.
Schneider's egg is larger.

WOMAN FALLS IN FIRE.

Her Limbs Baked, She Is Unconscious
Two Days; Gives Birth to Child.

Special to The Courier.
SOMERSET, March 25.—Mrs. John Zorn of Litchburg, fell into an open fire when she was struck with an electric fit. The fire was not sufficient to ignite her clothing and the woman lay there unconscious while her limbs were slowly roasted. When found by a neighbor, medical aid was summoned but she did not recover consciousness until yesterday.

Mrs. Zorn gave birth to a baby girl yesterday. The child lived but four hours. The mother's chances of recovery are slight.

BUYS LIVERY STABLE.

W. N. Johnson Secures Robert Seese's Business.

W. N. Johnson, formerly in the livery business at Vanderbit, has bought the livery and transfer business of Robert Seese and brothers on the West Side.

The deal was closed Monday. Mr.
Johnson some time ago disposed of his business at Vanderbit to Frank Barricklow and has already taken charge of his business in the West Side.

PROMISED SERVICE TO FAYETTE CITY IS EXPECTED SOON

Pittsburg and Lake Erie Gives Assurance Trains Will be Put On.

USE GASOLINE ELECTRIC CARS

Type of Motor-driven Passenger Car Now in Use Between Pittsburg and Beaver Falls Proves So Successful That It May Be Adopted Here.

Virtual assurance has been given by L. A. Robinson, general passenger agent of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie railroad, that when the new spring schedule is announced, passenger service will be inaugurated between Fayette City and Connellsville. The long-promised gasoline-electric cars of the type now used between Beaver Falls and Pittsburg will be adopted, it is said.

Various passenger conductors have been called into conferences and their opinions asked on the proposed motor car service. They declare that the officials seem to be strongly in favor of beginning the service and thus tapping the intervening territory which at present enjoys practically no transportation facilities of any kind. The cars seat approximately 30 people and are capable of very high speed. They are made by the General Electric Company and are used on 12 railroads in the west.

The inauguration of the new service primarily would be for passenger traffic, but the country through which the cars would run is one of the richest farming territory in the state and there would be large quantities of butter, eggs and farm produce transported to the Connellsville market.

It would thus be a prime factor in the reduction of the cost of food stuffs.
The completion of the Fayette City Whitsett cutoff makes possible the adoption of the new service. The route would be from Connellsville to Whitsett, then across to Fayette City, Fayette City, residents all along the route have petitioned at various times for this service, but pending the completion of the cutoff, the officials postponed granting the request.

The gasoline-electric car service could be maintained without interfering with regular passenger traffic.
From Connellsville to Fayette City a distance of eight miles, the Pittsburg & Lake Erie virtually has yards, and from there to Whitsett there is double track with sidings about every mile that will hold three or more cars between Whitsett and Fayette City there is now no passenger service of any kind.

The new service would be of benefit to approximately 15,000 people between Connellsville and Fayette City.

WILL TAKE OVER OLYMPIC

Deal Closed to Transfer Theatre to Robinson & Coughenour, the real estate and insurance agents, and D. F.
Hurley closed a deal today with William T. Strickler for the Olympic Theatre in North Pittsburgh street and will take charge on Saturday. The consideration was $5,000.

Mr. Hurley has resigned as general yardmaster of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and will become manager of the theatre, his resignation with the company taking effect at once. Mr.
Hurley has been in the service of the company for 14 years and at the expiration of that time was promoted to assistant general yardmaster, which position he held for four years. Other promotions as general yardmaster followed

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANIEL'S IS ACTIVE.

Have Your Hair Cut in 25 Cent Bottle Dandruff Right Now—Now Stops itching scalp.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scanty hair is sure evidence of a neglected scalp. Dandruff—that awful scurf—there is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Dandruff tonight—now—any time—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Lanoline from any drug store or to let counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and thick and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be that just a little Dandruff use, when you will actually get a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.—Adv.

MUST REPORT ACCIDENTS

Department of Labor to Get After Employers Who Fail to Do So.

The Commissioner of Labor and Industries reports that in the month of February 4,177 serious accidents have been reported. The Department of Labor and Industries with a total of 4,177 serious accidents. This represents but a fraction of the total number of accidents occurring in Pennsylvania, inasmuch as many have not yet fully learned that they are required, under serious penalties of the law, to make reports of all serious accidents.

The commissioner further gives notice that though he has been careful not to report hardship by prosecution of those failing to make reports in the past, by reason of the fact that the law was not understood he intends this month to take active measures to see that those who fail to comply with the law and not make reports will be vigorously prosecuted. He states that this is not intended as a hardship and all that is desired is a reasonable compliance with the law, which is of the utmost value to the people of Pennsylvania. It is having a full record of all accidents resulting with specifications of their causes, the department will be able to take measures in cooperation with employers, which will reduce the sum total probably not less than 50 or more per cent.

APPROVES THE TANGO

Uncle Joe Cannon Likes Niece's Terpsichorean Efforts.

DANVILLE, Pa., March 25.—Uncle Joe Cannon has come to the defense of the tango, even if by so doing he causes a family split. He has even attempted to dance the whirling, dipping steps and finds them all right, but a trifle hard to execute because of his advanced age.

The family row and the indorsement of the tango came about in this way: Uncle Joe has a beautiful and accomplished granddaughter, Miss Mildred Ann Cannon, daughter of O. W. Cannon of Danville. Recently Miss Cannon took up professional dancing and got an engagement at the French Lick Springs Hotel. When family objections arose, Uncle Joe supported his niece and she accepted a $500 a week engagement.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Sals to Still the Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, causing you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effect whatever. Here you have a pleasant, effective lithia-water, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

Postmaster W. D. McGinnis Entertains Because Pirates Lost.

W. D. McGinnis gave a supper last evening at the South Union to 26 friends in payment of a baseball wager made with J. E. Struble. About a year ago Mr. McGinnis and Mr. Struble were discussing the chances of the Pirates and the Giants for the pennant. Mr. McGinnis is a loyal Pirate fan and he and Mr. Struble agreed that if the Pirates finished ahead of the Giants, Mr. Struble would give a dinner to Mr. McGinnis and his friends, but if the Giants finished ahead of the Pirates Mr. McGinnis was to give the dinner. As the Giants finished first, Mr. McGinnis entertained last evening and Mr. Struble attended as the honor guest.

Each guest was presented with a red carnation as a memento of the occasion.

CUMBERLAND REVENGED

Connellsville Bowlers Defeated by Total of Eighty Pins.

The Cumberland team of the Baltimore & Ohio Bowling League last evening at the Masonic Temple bowling alley had sweet revenge for the defeat they sustained at Cumberland last Wednesday. The visitors bowled a consistent game throughout, while the local boys were decidedly off color and were defeated by a total of 80 pins.

After the game the players adjourned to the West Penn tea room where a delightful luncheon was served.

Captain Kallbaugh of the Cumberland team expressed his appreciation of the cordial reception given them here, which went far towards cementing the pleasant relationship which existed between the two teams.

It was agreed that the third and deciding game of the series be played at Cumberland.

YOUR HAIR NEEDS

PARISIAN SAGE

It Quickly Removes Dandruff, Stops Falling Hair and Scalp Itch.

Just because your hair is full of dandruff, thin, streaky and never will do up to look pretty do not think it must be so. Beautiful hair, thick, fluffy lustrous and absolutely free from dandruff is only a matter of care. Parisian Sage frequently applied and well rubbed into the scalp will work wonders. Just one application stops itching head, removes dandruff and all excessive oil. It goes right to the hair roots and furnishes the nourishment needed—the hair becomes soft, wavy abundant and radiant with life.

Parisian Sage, which can be had at any drug or toilet counter not only saves the hair but stimulates it to grow long and heavy. Get a 50 cent bottle from A. A. Clarke at once. There is no other "Just-as-good."

DISMISS POSTMASTER

Democratic Appointee Who Agreed to Pay is Fired by Postmaster.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—As a result of the exposure of the matter and side of postmaster in the Twentieth Pennsylvania Congressional District, comprising York and Adams counties, Postmaster General Burleson last night summarily dismissed James F. Singer, postmaster at New Freedom. This action followed the revelation that Singer had signed an agreement to pay $75 annually as the purchase price of his office.

Minority members of the House postoffice committee framed a resolution for introduction in the House, providing for an investigation of conditions in York county. The resolution was ready for presentation today, but on the advice of some of the Republican leaders, was delayed until the postmaster general has had time to conclude his inquiry.

WOMEN WHO ARE ALWAYS TIRED

May Find Help in This Letter.

Swan Creek, Mich.—"I cannot speak too highly of your medicine. When through neglect or overwork I get run down, my appetite is poor and I have that weak, languid feeling, I get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it builds me up, gives me strength, and restores me to perfect health again. It is truly a great blessing to women, and I cannot speak too highly of it. I take pleasure in recommending it to others."—Mrs. ANNE CAMERON, R.F.D., No. 1, Swan Creek, Michigan.

Another Sufferer Relieved.
Hebron, Me.—"Before taking your remedies I was all run down, discouraged and had female weakness. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and used the Sarsaparilla Wash, and today that I am an entirely new woman, ready and willing to do my household work, where before taking your medicine it was a dread. I try to impress upon the minds of all ailing women I meet the benefits they can derive from your medicines."—Mrs. CHARLES BROWN, R.F.D., No. 1, Hebron, Maine.

THURSDAY EVENG, MAR. 26, 1914.

OFF THE TRACK.

The open-front, extension-back, state-wide, universal-action primary election is still a matter of nearly two months off, yet the Bull Moose nominations continue to be made with much haste and little respect for the spirit and the letter of the law.

Pinchot of Pike was nominated for United States Senator at Harrisburg some weeks ago by Reformers, Plims, and now Charles Freeman Hood of the Indian Creek Valley is nominated for Congress in this district by a Group Convention, composed chiefly of those Plims and Field Marshall Clark, held in Pittsburgh yesterday. We are told by the Bull Moose organ of Fayette county that it was an enthusiastic meeting. Just who furnished the enthusiasm is not stated, but the announcement was made that T. Roosevelt and W. Plims would tour the district to the tune of "Pinchot." Hood is expected to catch on to the tune and the costume of Pike county's favorite son.

We note with interest that there were also present in this enthusiastic but not overwhelming gathering our old political friends Peter Adolphus Johns, John H. Byrne and William A. Stone. It is hard to understand how these ambitious politicians refrained from laying violent hands upon this Bull Moose nomination, or why they consented that it should come to Connelville. They were never known to let a good thing get away. Their moderation, not to say their generosity, cannot be attributed to the moral influence of their great example. T. Roosevelt has a record of never letting go of anything he could get his hands on notwithstanding his patriotic declaration that he would never, no never, ever let a good thing get away. The conclusion is irresistible that these astute members of an expiring party or faction which would be actually defunct but for the final backing of Plims and the promise of Roosevelt to tour the state this fall in the interest of Pinchot of Pike and for the purpose of setting even this Fenwick of Philadelphia, have succeeded to the Connelville candidate something not worth having.

The eagerness of the latter to grab the gold brick is probably due to the fact that he has been trying for some years past to get the Republican nomination without success, and that he now sees in it either hopes of success or prospects of revenge. The one is as illusive as the latter is unworthy.

Charles Freeman Hood has many friends in Connelville and the district, but those who are not Democrats or New Freedom cadets think he would be better employed in running his railroad than in trying to wreck a political party which stands for the encouragement, promotion and success of our industrial life, including the life of the Indian Creek Valley development.

Charles Freeman Hood is off the track.

SWALLOW OR CHOKER.

The Connelville News (not Standard) seems to have undertaken a mission of misrepresentation. In political misrepresentation is all right if the author can get away with it, but if he can't he had better make a mess of things. The News is a great messer.

Our contemporary seems to be taking a keen delight these days in belittling, in its pious way, the Wilson administration, and glorifying in a temporary depression of business. This is not alone rank partisanship but, unwise business policy. Business will rally, but it will improve sooner through united support. Every thrust designed to injure national business is a thrust direct at local business. The Courier should know this. Its own patrons have long been cognizant of it. Must the facts be thrust down the Courier's throat before the full realization comes?

Our readers will bear testimony to the fact that The Courier has never gloried in any business depression, not even in those which the country suffered under the last Cleveland administration, a condition which it helped to make, much less the present unsatisfactory circumstances. The prosperity of the country is more to us than the success of any party.

The Courier is a newspaper. It has given the facts about business. It has printed them in sorrow not in anger. In every line and letter it resents the imputation that it is in any manner responsible for the present "depression in business." That depression has been caused by the unwise policies of the Democratic party, and it will be remembered that it was foretold in these columns long before it came to pass.

We thrust down the throat of our Democratic contemporary the imputation that we are in any manner responsible for the results of Democratic folly. Let it swallow or choke.

The Ohio Legislature seems to have legislated too much about the coal business. It is a common legislative fault just now.

The Hard farm is getting ready to declare another dividend.

SPECIALIZING IN JUSTICE.

The mass of business accumulating before the Interstate Commerce Commission, and the intricate and technical character of the matters in dispute before that body has led to the suggestion that the commission might with profit be enlarged to nine members and that they might specialize in certain lines. The Trade and Transportation Bureau in this connection says:

"The theory advanced is that coal and coke might engage the attention of certain members, lumber that of others, grain of a third group, iron and steel of another, and so on, bringing about an expert knowledge of various lines of traffic and its movement. The belief is that much better results would follow some such plan than territorial arrangement for supervision, because the movement of our staples is national and the origin so to speak quite broad in scope. The general consensus of opinion as we get it is that too much is thrown upon the commission that should be investigated through other channels and that the chances of making certain violations thereof misdemeanors, and prescribing penalties for violations of its provisions, approved the 17th day of February, A. D. 1900, and amended by the Act of the General Assembly, approved the 12th day of April, A. D. 1911, and amended by the Act of the General Assembly, approved the 12th day of July, A. D. 1912, it is made the duty of the County Commissioners of Fayette county, Pennsylvania, to give public notice to the electors of the county of Fayette that on Tuesday, May 19, 1914, between the hours of seven o'clock A. M. and seven o'clock P. SCOTSDALE RAISES IN FOUR DAYS OVER SIXTEEN THOUSAND

Association Campaign: Two Days Ahead Makes Great Record.

CHEERING MEN HOARSE TODAY

Started to Raise $12,000 Until Friday Evening, But Energy, Organization and Liberal People Go Several Thousands Better; Five Club Tonight

Special to The Courier.
SCOTSDALE, March 26.—Starting with a goal of $12,000 for the furniture and maintenance fund for the new Y. M. C. A. building the campaign teams finished up two days ahead of time with $16,248.24 subscribed last evening. It was the most enthusiastic evening ever known in town, and the association building rang so with cheering and so frequently as reports of the subscriptions were given in at the gymnasium that political uprisings of the past developed into insignificance.

It was an amazing and magnificent work of the people of Scottdale in giving to a cause that was proven so near to their hearts and pocketbooks, and subscriptions made a jump from Tuesday evening with $11,740 to the $15,248.24 on Friday evening. The four days the campaign continued, or an average of over $4,000 for each day.

Two notices were taken at the money tables, the first turn being $15,177. With the completion of the fund there becomes available the $10,000 conditionally given by H. C.
Frick, Robert Skemp suggested three cheers for Mr. Frick, and like others given that evening. It was done with a roar, J. E. Kistman who secured the Frick subscription, and J. T.
Kethley and each of them later were heartily in their thanks to their hiro-capitalists each, and the latter personally thanked the men of the team.
State Secretary E. J. Hockenbury, who managed the campaign, and Secretary J. A. Addison each were given overtures. Mr. Hockenbury stood up for the people right, and he was heartily pleased. He explained he got no commission from the funds raised.
The ministers were all present and officially placed their approval upon the project, and pledged their heartiest support, the Ministerium putting in $25, besides their personal donations.

The high school team made a fine record in two days and pledged their interest and support to the institution.
Barkley's orchestra was present and played during supper, adding much to the pleasure of the occasion.

Another of the things that brought the big cheer was the announcement of the ladies who have served the supper that they contributed $800 to the fund and have organized a Ladies' Auxiliary, with Mrs. E. J.
Skemp, president, and will meet Tuesday afternoon in the lecture room of the building at 8:30.

It was all a thoroughly Scottdale crowd, successful in an enterprise which means much to the youth of town, and carried out with that harmony and energy that characterizes Scottdale when over it takes place.

Photographer H. J. Springer was present and made a flash-light of the big crowd, marking a history-making night in the mill town.

The Courier was thanked for its daily reports and the local press for their aid through the weeklies, and for the special bulletin.

GLENN CLARK TONIGHT.
In the Dickinson College Glee Club and Mandolin Club which will appear at the Scottdale Theatre tonight, under the auspices of the High School Athletic Association, is a Scottdale boy, Clayton G. Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Perry, who appears among the first basses of the Glee Club.
Among Scottdale graduates of the college are J. T. Erickson and D. E.
Porter, while J. D. Porter, like Mr.
Perry is a student at the college. Following the concert here there will be a reception given at that Perry home in honor of the clubs. The members will be entertained in town. The program is an interesting one and the great sale at Barker's demonstrates the interest felt in the coming of this musical organization.

"I advise every ballplayer to smoke Tuxedo. I do, always. I know of no other tobacco that gives the satisfaction that Tuxedo does."

JIMMY ARCHER
"Tuxedo is my idea of a good smoke in every way—coolness,

Tuxedo—A Hit with the Hit-Makers

HUNDREDS of the snappiest ball players in the country—the clean-cut athletes who provide Americans with their greatest outdoor relaxation—enthusiastically endorse Tuxedo. This is the kind of endorsement that carries a convincing punch.

These men know that Tuxedo is a mild, pure tobacco, which can be smoked all day with pleasure. Tuxedo cannot bite the tongue; it burns freely and smoothly, giving a cool, sweet smoke.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe and Cigarette

From the scoreboard man to the magnate in the private box, everybody on the grounds is "catching on to" the supreme merit of Tuxedo.

Tuxedo is made from the finest, mildest leaves of high-grade Burley tobacco, so treated under the famous original "Tuxedo Process" that it burns slow and cool, with a delightful flavor and aroma.

The "Tuxedo Process" makes it impossible for this perfect tobacco to bite or sting the most delicate throat or tongue.

Tuxedo has many imitators—in outward appearance. It has no equal in the pipe or cigarette.

HOW THIN PEOPLE CAN PUT ON FLESH

A New Discovery.
This is the first time that big,
heartily, Billar dinner you are last night.
What became of all the fat-producing element in your system? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like an empty shell, leaving you as thin as a rod. The material was there, but your food didn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly ever enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. You must learn to prepare your food so that it will be easily and quickly assimilated, are ready out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Omit the flesh cream and butter, and eat everything but the meats you are eating now, and out with every one of those single Sargol tablets. In two weeks you will be fresh, strong and healthy. Sargol gives fresh new red blood corpuscles—gives the blood the carrying power to dispose of every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food and prepares it for the blood to easily assimilate from. Thin people gain all the way from 10 to 25 pounds in a month while taking Sargol, and the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a scientific combination of six of the best food-producing elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, burlesque and inexpensive, and all druggists sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back—adv.

MOUNT PLEASANT

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 25.—The following persons have been chosen to take part in the literary contest to be held at the close of school. The Philos are: Declaration, Eugene Keller; recitation, Elizabeth Overholt; essay, Pauline Arkwright and the Euclids are: Declaration, Charles Walker; recitation, Pearl Ellis; essay, Viola Stout. The debate will be "Resolved That the Principle of the Pension Operative in the Army and Navy Should Apply in All Forms of Industry." The affirmative is John Zerkhauser, Lewis Brown of the Philos, and the negative is Edward Berdyck and Elizabeth Hurst of the Euclids.

William Pitt has brought a charge of assault and battery against Mrs. Pitt. At a hearing before Justice White last evening the case was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Mrs. Victor Kwak, of Slammouth was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace L. S. Rhodes charged by Frederick S. C. Stevenson with failing to report births. Mrs. Kwak who is a midwife pleaded guilty to 12 births she did not report and was fined the minimum $5 for each birth.

Mrs. John Ketter, aged 70 years, died at the home of her sister Mrs. Frank Anderson. Funeral services will be held Friday morning at St. Johns cemetery.

Mrs. J. Lawson, aged 27 years, is dead at his home. Mr. Lawson who was a salaried man fell 130 feet off a stack which was punctured, injuring himself and, or fully recovered. Friday afternoon, the body will be taken to Dawson and interment will be made in Pleasant cemetery.

A reception was given at the Methodist Episcopal Church last evening for the 100 new members. Three joined last evening. The program was congregational singing, prayer, Rev. Galloway, solo, "In the Garden of My Heart," William McNaughton, reading, "The Sweet Girl Graduate," Miss Emma (Lettorpe), duet, Mrs. (Lila) Weaver and Mrs. Blumer, recitation, "My Boyhood Pantomime," George Bedford; solo, Mr. Lewis, reading, "Miss Catherine's pain solo, Miss Anna Harmon; solo, "The Garden of Love," T. G. Weaver. After a reception very delicious refreshments were served.

Folksing system afternoon and evening fully 2,000 persons attended the opening of the new Kolbaker building. Beautiful souvenirs were given away.

MANY STEEL CARS

Nearly Half of Those on 88 Systems of Late Freight.

It is authoritatively stated that 88 railroad systems in this country now own 2,116,799 freight cars that are of steel or steel-underside construction, or 18.5 of the total number of cars owned.

Among these systems the New Haven has 91.3 per cent of steel or in part steel freight cars, a condition due largely to the newness of its equipment. The Norfolk & Western stands third with 79.2 per cent. Other roads that rank high are the Pennsylvania, Delaware & Hudson, and Lehigh Valley.

The all-steel cars in the 88 systems represented in the total of 2,116,799 freight cars numbered 429,223, or 20.3 per cent. The percentage cars numbered 116,871 or 24.9 per cent. It has become the custom of many leading roads to equip all their new freight cars with steel undersides whenever the cars go to shops for repairs.

TRAFFIC MANAGER RESIGNS.

Thomas G. Smiley, Quila Western Maryland Railroad, has resigned as freight traffic manager of the Western Maryland railroad, effective April 1. The office will be abolished at that date and the duties taken over by General Traffic Manager Caples.

The retirement of Mr. Smiley is the second important change in the general staff of the company since the new president, Carl H. Gray, assumed the direction of affairs.

DISCUSS MAG. HAUL.

Furnaces and Steel Works Men Confer With Railroad Officials.

Fifty blast furnaces and steel works in the central west were represented at a meeting in Pittsburgh last week with representatives of leading railroads for the purpose of considering a proposed tariff for carrying waste slag away from furnaces and steel works.

There was much discussion but no definite action.

NAME CORRECTIONS.

On Line of Virginia & Southwestern Into Both Carolinas.

The Virginia & Southwestern Railway Company and others have been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to establish rates on coal prices from the ovens on the line of the Virginia & Southwestern to North and South Carolina points, the same as rates on coal from the ovens on the Clinch Valley division of the Norfolk & Western railway, operating the Virginia & Southwestern coal rates as minimum.

Except to points south and west of Salisbury, N. C., rates are to be 25 cents per ton higher than rates currently in effect on coal but not higher than rates on coals from ovens of the Clinch Valley division.

N. & W. Shipments. Coal and coke shipments over the Norfolk & Western railway during February from West Virginia mines totaled 1,329,994 tons of coal and 61,679 tons of coke, all the latter from the Pocahontas field.

Announcing—

The Year's "Six" Sensation

FOR FIVE YEARS the automobile industry has been whispering the expected coming of the Ultimate Car—a fully equipped motor car of the $3000-$5000 class selling at $1600 to $2000. That very car has been created—it is the wonderful

New Lewis Six

But now, the man who denied himself a "Six"—with all its new driving sensations, its wonderful "pick-up"—the feeling of flying rather than being propelled by machinery—because a good six cost $3,000 to $5,000 need no longer put up with the drawbacks of "fours."

This is the first instance in automobile history that a 6-cylinder car of 135-inch wheel base with every refinement and luxury—mechanically perfected—has been offered anywhere near this price.

The 4-cylinder price now gives you the world's greatest motor car value in the new Lewis Six at $1600.

A Famous European Engineer's Masterpiece

The designer is M. Petard, a famous French engineer, formerly with the Fiat, Italia, Darracq and Unic.

The Lewis Six is a 6-cylinder car, 135-inch wheel base, 6-passenger body, equipped with every luxury and convenience that dealers in $5,000 cars have had to sell. Note the features and specifications.

It not only is attractive to the owners of moderate-priced cars, but people in the $500 and $1,000 class buying their second cars.

We are concentrating our energies on one chassis, one body. That manufacturing economy, plus the wonderful simplicity of the car (approximately 1,200 fewer parts than an average car) accounts for the extraordinary value.

Removes the Six's Last Snag

Read tests show that this is the most economical Six ever produced, 18 to 19 miles to the gallon being secured. Its simplicity means upkeep on this car will be practically nil—and that means the highest degree of automobile satisfaction.

Never Before Such Features at the Price

This is the initial announcement of the most astounding value the automobile industry has ever known. The mere word-of-mouth news of the expected creation of this car has brought letters from practically every territory in this country. Come and see the new car—but first phone or write for a copy of the new catalog and photograph. Write to

The MAD of the FOREST

A Romance of St. Clair's Defeat

By RANDALL PARRISH

ILLUSTRATED BY D. J. LAVIN

COPYRIGHT A. C. MCCLURG & CO., 1913

"He reckons 'bout fifty miles, though it would be less than that straight across country. It takes maybe two days at a night to make the fork with good paddling."

As none of the rest of our progress stream had thus far fallen upon me I remained on guard over the three sleepers, cleaning away the debris of the meal, and packing the cooking utensils back in the canoe. The men slept soundly, although I noticed every movement, even the slight rustle of leaves in a sudden puff of wind, served to arouse Brady or the Indians to instant consciousness. They possessed the instinct of wild animals, ever alert to danger. It must have been full moon when I aroused them, and we again headed the canoe up stream, Brady willingly taking the soldier's place at the after paddle, while I lay back in the stern, my coat serving for a pillow, and finally fell asleep.

The river narrowed rapidly as we advanced northward, until the great trees on either bank nearly obscured the sun overhead. The Delawares were already exhibiting a disinclination to proceed, and we were compelled to hold them by threats to their work. Each mile of advance northward added to their terror, and made our task more difficult. Once Brady struck the chief, driving him back to his place in the canoe. This was when we discovered unmistakable signs that a party of Miami had crossed the river only shortly before we passed the spot.

However, we ran the gunniet safely, a mere silent shadow slipping along in the dark shade of the protecting bank, and thus finally attained the fork, and landed on the west shore. It was dark when we got there, but the Delawares were so eager to return, that we immediately put ashore all we intended to pack with us, and parted with them gladly. The canoe shot swiftly away into the gloom, leaving the three of us alone. Hearing our loads with us, we groped a blind way through the forest, back toward the foot of the bluff, where we made camp, as best we might, at the mouth of a ravine, well sheltered by underbrush, and lay down, venturing to light a fire. For some time scarcely a memory of Rene D'Auway had remained with me, my mind being fully occupied with the increasing peril of our position; yet as I lay there in the silence, looking up at the stars, her eyes seemed to smile again into mine, and I dreamed of her as I slept. The dawn found us safe, seemingly alone in the wilderness.

CHAPTER V.

The Trail of a War Party.
Before the sun's rays touched the summit of the bluff we were climbing the sides of the ravine, with light packs on our shoulders. Brady led the way, tireless and watchful, his long rifle held ready in the crook of his arm, his alert eyes searching out the ground ahead. Behind him lumbered Schultz, heavy-footed, and grumbling Dutch oaths at every misstep, yet somehow managing to keep up; while I brought up the rear, my gaze intent on the surrounding ridges.

For three days we encountered nothing to alarm. Brady purposely kept away from all trails, trusting implicitly to his instinct as a woodsman to discover a safe passage. He possessed the instincts of the wild, the subtlety of the savage, born of constant peril and loneliness.

Once, where we forded a considerable stream, which I think now must have been the Vermilion, we came upon the blackened remains of a campfire, apparently deserted but a few hours before. Brady examined it with great care, trailing the party to the river bank, and then making a wide circuit of the woods, before he finally returned satisfied.

"Less than three hours gone," he said soberly, "and traveling north."
"Do you know who they were?" I asked.

"Miami and Ojibwa," I reckon, and they had a prisoner, bound to that small tree out yonder; see here, Hayward, the fellow had boots on, and not moccasins. From the trail they made here on the bank there must have been twelve or fifteen Indians; ay, and a white renegade," he bent down again to study a track in the mud, "for this is no red-skin's foot, with the toes turned out." He swore, the only oath I had heard thus far from his lips, plucking a few long hairs from off a spit of underbrush, and holding them up to the sunlight. "A war party all right, with scalps. One fellow brushed against this bush as he came down the bank; from the color they must have been raiding the German settlements."

I stared at the floating hairs, shuddering in horror, and hands gripped hard on my rifle.

"Good God! and they are going our way!"

"That needn't trouble us, while they weave a plain trail behind. These devils feel safe enough now, or they'd take more care. We are in no danger while we keep ahead of us."

We made a detour to the right, plunging straight forward into the unbroken woods. Brady led at a fast gait, his trained iron muscles tireless, while I urged the breathless soldier to new exertions, frightening him by constant reference to the raiders so close at hand. The perspiration rolled down his face, yet he kept close to Brady's heels, falling flat on the ground during our brief halts, but determined not to be left behind. There was certainly good stuff in the fellow, although he swore sullenly, and had a tread like an elephant. Just before dark, the forest about us already in gloom, we suddenly emerged from out the shadow of great trees, and stood on the shore of a lake girded with woods. A few hundred feet from where we stood a small rocky island, dense with trees, rose above the mirrored surface. After one swift glance about the line of shore Brady's eyes rested on this haven, as though questioning its feasibility as a night camp. There was a yellow tinge to the intervening water, suggestive of shallowness, and I spoke first.

"It will be dark in a few minutes more; isn't that a sand-ridge leading out yonder?"

"It looks so to me," he replied quietly, "but the only sure way to tell is to set the passage. In my judgment we better get out there if we can, for there's no knowing where these Indians may be."

He led the way, and we followed in single file, our packs and rifles held high overhead. The water deepened until it reached Schultz's armpits, but there was no perceptible current, and the sand underfoot was firm as rock. Deep purple shadows seemed to shut us in, as we stumbled up the steep bank of the island, our clothes dripping. Brady, with outstretched hand, helped me to climb, clinging with his other to a sapling. Then he pointed across the darkened surface toward the lower end of the lake. In the distance there was the red glow of a fire, barely visible.

The island was wider than I had supposed, and must have contained fully five acres, densely wooded, with no sign of a trail anywhere. Apparently we were the first explorers to penetrate its thickets. Suddenly we came to the edge of a small opening, sloping down like a meadow, grass covered and treeless, open to the sky, but with a dark irregular something at its center. So shapeless was this black blotch that I took it at first to be a clump of brush, but the scout gripped my arm.

"Hayward! there's a log house!" he whispered, pointing. "Do you see? Keep the Dutchman back!"

I dropped to my knees, and studied the dim outline, which the night rendered so indistinct. Little by little it assumed more definite shape—a one-story log hut, with an extension at the rear, and an outside chimney forking up beside the roof. It was a gloomy looking place, with no glimmer of light showing anywhere.

"What do you make of it?" asked Brady in a whisper, as though doubting his own eyes.

"It's a house, all right," I answered. "Some French hunter's shack."

He shook his head negatively. "They don't build like that. It beats me, but whoever built that house put it up to live in. Howsoever I don't see no sign of anybody that now, an' I'm a sot! I'd find out what they shabang looks like. Dutchy, you stay yore, and keep these things, while the two of us scouts 'round a bit."

Stooping low, so as not to be so easily perceived in the darkness, the two of us, grasping our rifles in readiness, stood across the open space toward the house. There was no sign of life so far as could be seen or heard, yet if the place was deserted it could not have been for long, as there were no appearances of decay or abandonment of the premises. The log walls were firm, the clay between resisting the pressure of our fingers in an attempt to dislodge it, and the only door noticed was lightly closed. We hesitated to open this, uncertain what mystery might await us within, and listening anxiously for any sound. The stillness was so profound as to be painful, and, whispering to me to stand back, with rifle poised Brady silently lifted the strong wooden latch. The door slid back in grooves, the sound of movement barely perceptible, and we stared into the black interior, seeing nothing except a little section of dirt floor, dimly revealed by the stars overhead.

"We'll feel it out, boy," muttered the scout, his hand gripping my arm. "Nobody at home, I reckon, but it won't do to risk a light. You take that side, an' I'll take this, an' see what we find."

I moved forward slowly, foot by foot, feeling blindly with one hand, the other grasping my rifle. I came to a rude bench, home-made without nails, touched a small table with crossed legs, holding nothing but an empty with the latch of a door. As I touched this the menacing growl of some animal broke the intense stillness. I stepped back, startled, unnerved, and in my recoil, came into contact with a man. A hand like iron gripped me, but it was Brady's voice that spoke.

"From the other room," he said shortly, "a dog."

"A dog! Then why hasn't he barked?"

"Because he is not that kind, I reckon; a big brute from his growl. Did you find anything?"

I told him briefly.

"Fireplace on my side, two chairs and an ax in the corner," he added shortly. "Nobody home but the dog, I reckon, but we will have to fight it out with him, before we take possession. Stand where you are until I feel out the door. Leather hinges, and opens this way. Here, Hayward, take hold of the latch, we'll have to brain the brute. Don't open until I say so, and then only about a foot. Brace yourself to hold it firm, and keep your gun ready. I've got the ax."

I took my position, but with heart beating rapidly, and waited. The dog, as though realizing danger, flung himself with full force against the door, and gave one deafening bang, and then only about a foot. Brady swung ferociously, Brady touched my hand, indicating the opening. Then there was an instant of silence.

"Now!" he said.

I lifted the wooden latch, gripping with both hands, my shoulders and feet braced. There was a fierce leap of the brute, so sudden as to cause me to give back, the thud of descending ax, a howl of pain and rage, the ugly snap of jaws. Coarse hair swept my hands; there was another blow, the sound of a falling body; then the holvo of the ax struck my foot. Back and forth on the dirt floor man and brute struggled, crashing into the table, and overturning it. Brady uttered one oath, then the dog snarled, and lay still, while I stood with the ax poised, unable to tell which way which in the darkness. So cowering moved, and I took a step forward.

"Brady!"

"All right," he said breathlessly. "I had to knif the brute—he was as big as a calf, and he got my shoulder. Did you find a window on your side?"

"No."

"There was none on mine. We'll have to risk a light, I reckon, for I'm bleedin' considerable. Try the fireplace yonder."

I felt my way along the wall, discovered some tinder, and with flint and steel from my pocket, coaxed a blaze. There were a few pieces of wood piled up on the hearth, and a moment later the curling red flames revealed the interior. Brady peered against the bench, the sleeve of his blouse ripped into shreds, blood dripping from his forehead, and a faint glow of light from the door. A few feet away a great mass of shaggy hair, lay the dog in a heap, his lips still drawn back in a snarl, revealing the cruel white teeth, the shaft of a knife protruding from the throat. He was a massive animal, terrifying to look upon even in death. Yet I barely glanced that way, assured that he was dead, and all my interest centered on Brady, his face ghastly under the brown tan. There was a water bucket half filled on a low bench, and I tore down the shirt from the peg, and swabbed out the wound. It was a jagged, ugly gash, the print of each tooth revealed, and the man clinched his hands in agony as I worked rapidly. The blood stained somewhat I bound it lightly with a silk neckerchief, and gave him a drink of brandy from my pocket flask. This brought a little color back into the man's face and he found strength to sit up, resting against the bench, his eyes on the dead dog.

"Mastin," he said, "and the biggest devil I ever saw. I hit him with the ax the first blow, but in the dark I failed to strike high enough, I reckon. What do you suppose he was guardin' so say?"

I shook my head, glancing about at the open door. Brady's eyes followed mine.

"Get a light of some kind, Hayward, and take a look," he said slowly, "and then have Dutchy bring in the packs."

I did as he suggested, finding a bit of pitchy wood that burned freely, and holding it out before me as I peered curiously through the opening. A glimmer about told me that the lantern was used as a shed, for it was half filled with split wood, opened boxes and various odds and ends. This knowledge came to me in a flash, but the sight which riveted my eyes was the body of a man lying directly behind the door, face upward, his skull cleft as if by the vicious blow of an ax.

CHAPTER VI.

Captain D'Auway.
"What is it?" asked Brady, startled by my sudden exclamation, and striving to get up. I glanced back at him. "A dead man; stay where you are; he is dead all right. I'll be back in a moment."

I stepped within, and held the torch down closer, the ghastly yellow light falling full on the upturned face. He was a man of seventy, or over, a sturdy looking fellow for his years, in the garments of a French courier des bois, his features strong, refined, bearing even to death a certain peculiar dignity, increased by a snow-white beard. Apparently he had not been dead long, as there slight evidence of struggle, the hands were empty, and, judging from the ugly gash in his head, he had been struck from behind unexpectedly. It was a ghastly wound, and the man had probably died instantly. The blow must have been a tremendous one, delivered by some person acquainted with the cabin; otherwise the dog would have sprung to his master's defense. Plainly this was murder, and the assassin had taken his time, had closed the door, locked in the dog, had even wrenched off the blade of the ax, and left it standing there against the wall. What could have been the object? Was it revenge? Robbery? I felt in the pocket of the loose blouse, finding nothing, but my eye caught the glimmer of a medal fastened to the front of the shirt. I unplanned it, and held it up to the light of the torch, studying up to the French inscription, letter by letter, half guessing at its meaning. It was a medal of honor, given for special gallantry in action at Fontenoy to Capt. Raoul D'Auway.

I stood staring at it, and then down into the face of the dead man. D'Auway! Her name! The same name she had given me! The face of the girl came back instantly to memory, discolored, living. There was a familiarity, a resemblance, that I thus perceived the two together. She had told me her father was a French officer—but dead, killed in action. Perhaps she thought so, had been deceived into this belief. Yet I was convinced now that this was the man, that he had been living up to a few hours before, and had met his fate here in the wilderness by a foul and treacherous blow. Her father! The knowledge seemed to shock me, to leave me helpless; I could not divorce my mind from the remembrance of the daughter. Where would she be that night? Safe at Harmar's? Or in the dark woods with Girty? Did she know about this hidden cabin? This island rendezvous? Surely this could be no mere coincidence of name and history, yet I was wary, that every breath I drew hid her name, and why did she deny that he was still living? The more I thought, the more tangled grew the skein. Brady called me, and I stepped back into the other room, still dazed, staring at the medal in my hand.

"Well, what is it?" he asked gruffly. "What have you found out?"

I told him briefly, describing the appearance of the body, and handing him the medal. He turned it over in the light of the torch.

"French, ain't it? What does it say?"

"An army decoration for gallant conduct given to Capt. Raoul D'Auway, Fifth Cuirassiers."

"You think it belonged to him?"

"I don't know, it was pinned to his shirt—the one thing he treasured in his exile."

"D'Auway," he repeated, as if the name had familiar sound. "I've heard of him before. Wait a bit, now I have it—he commanded Hamilton's Indians at Vincennes when Clark took the town. I saw him once."

He got to his feet with my help, and braced himself in the doorway, looking intently at the upturned face, as I held the torch extended.

"The man," he said soberly. "I remember the white beard, some one told me the Wyandots called him the white chief and he was in the French army? An officer? Poor devil! I wonder what happened to drive him to this."

He stared at among the shadows at miscellaneous articles littering the shed, his trained eyes noting things I had overlooked in my excitement. "He was murdered all right, lad," he commented slowly, "and by a white man. This was not Indian work. You see even the nails. That's odd. I didn't suppose there was a boot worn in this country except by British officers. What is that red garment lying on the box? I thought so; an English infantry jacket, made in London, and it never belonged to D'Auway." He held it up. "It was a big fellow who wore this coat, about your size."

I drew up the bench, and sat down. "There is more to this than you have discovered, Brady," I said, determined to explain. "Did you chance to see a French girl back at Fort Harmar?"

He shook his head.

"Not as I remember, who was she?"

"That is what I would like to know. I hoped you might have picked up some information. She was at General Harmar's office—a young girl, not much over twenty, about my judge, with dark eyes and hair, speaking broken English, her dress half Indian and half French. She was one in a thousand, to my thought. What name do you suppose she gave me?"

His eyes, interested, questioned me, but he sat silent.

"Rene D'Auway," and she explained her father was a French officer, killed in battle."

"And her mother?"

"A woman of the Wyandots, but a half-breed."

"D'Auway! The same as the dead man yonder! And he was a soldier. It is an odd case. What else do you know about her?"

"Precious little, indeed, for she seemed an adept in deceit. She even pretended to know me, and actually spoke my name before it had been told her. How she ever learned it is more than I can guess. The little mix is full of tricks, but plays them so saucily it was not in my heart to become angry. By heavens! one glance in her eyes would disarm any man."

"Ten," he interrupted, "but whence came she these, and for what purpose?"

I told him all I knew, and he listened eagerly, his eyes on Schultz putting about the fire.

"She must have tested in her threat to travel hither with the renegade." "I fear it was not just," I said soberly. "She was in a mood to do even that, and I do not think she feared the man. They may be on our trail now, ay, close at hand, Brady, for they both know the woods better than either of us." It is my thought, now, the dead man yonder was the last father, and she would know his cabin."

His eyes turned to the door, and then to the food Schultz was placing on the table before us, but whatever he thought it remained unuttered. As we sat there eating, he was apparently turning it all over in his mind, trying to draw the tangled ends of the skein together. As we finished the meal some newly awakened curiosity caused me to glance out again into the rear room. It was gloomy with shadows, the bodies of man and dog beyond view, yet what I perceived brought from my lips a sudden exclamation.

"Brady, some one has been in here! The outer door is unlatched—yes, and the soldier's coat is gone!"

We searched the room carefully, but discovered no sign of its having been entered, except for the door standing slightly ajar, and the disappearance of the red coat. We dare not carry a torch into the open, and the night was too dark for us to trace marks on the ground. Brady stood in the glow of the firelight, looking to the priming of his rifle, his face shadowed.

"I am going out awhile, Hayward," he said finally. "Yes, I am all right now. I meant to take you along, but I reckon, it will be safer not to leave the Dutchman here alone. However, I don't think there will be any more visitors tonight."

He slipped out the back way, dimly peering instantly, and I picked up my own rifle, bade Schultz remain where he was, and followed, with the purpose of scouting about the island. I could perceive the new danger we were in. Suppose the assassin, eager to save himself from suspicion, should be attracted to that camp of raiders, and relying on their friendship for protection, change us with the murder of D'Auway. What mercy could we hope for at their hands? Beyond doubt the band was composed of ambitious young warriors, who had already tasted blood, and under control of no chief able to restrain them, if their wild passions should be appeased.

But I emerged into darkness and silence. Quickly as I had made this decision I was too late. The scout had already disappeared across the narrow open space, and vanished into the thicket of trees. There was nothing to guide me, except a vague sense of direction, yet I felt my way forward through the dense tree growth hearing no sound of movement, and compelled to move slowly until I emerged at the shore, and could perceive the stars reflected on the surface of still water. As I lingered there clear of the woods' shadow, my courage gradually returned, and our situation appeared less desperate. Whoever the fellow was who had killed D'Auway he might have as much chance to feast the Indian raiders as we did. The more fact that he wore a red coat was no direct proof he was a British soldier, doubtless many a French renegade had picked up bits of discarded uniforms. Besides, why should any soldier desire to kill D'Auway? He had led his Indians to action under Hamilton. More likely the fellow was French, and the murder the end of some private feud. His only desire then would be to get away safely, to escape unseen. Brady would learn all this, and he would be back presently.

I do not know how long a time passed only I had circled the house twice, skirting the edge of the woods in my rounds, keeping well in the blacker shadows, and moving noiselessly, every nerve alert. Back of the house I discovered a mound of earth, heaped as a roof, over an opening in the ground, evidently a cellar of some kind. So far as I could discover, by groping in the darkness, there was nothing concealed within, but the entrance offered a good hiding place, and I sat down there where I could see in every direction, with my rifle across my knees. The stars yielded a spectral light, and no one could move across the clearing unobserved. I sat there, ten minutes, seeing and hearing nothing, gradually growing drowsy in the silence, my head sinking back against the earth mound. Yet I remained awake and watchful, although when I first perceived a figure fitting out of the black fringe of woods, I half believed it a dream. But it was no dream, and I sat up suddenly, my heart beating like a trippammer, and stared I could see little, not enough to determine whether the intruder was savage or white, merely perceiving an indistinct form, crouching low, yet advancing directly toward me. There was no hesitancy, no evidence of fear, but merely the natural caution of one traveling alone in the wilderness. At first I believed it to be Brady returning, yet he seemed to step boldly forth, for the figure appeared small and unnatural, barely perceptible against the darker background of earth.

WIDOW BY PROXY.

"Widow by Proxy" the new farce to exploit Miss May Irwin's genial personality this season, and in which she will be seen at the Soisson Theatre Thursday night, April 22nd, is said to be much better in dramatic structure than have been her plays of other years. The new farce concerns the adventures of Gloria Grey (in singing costume) Miss Irwin, and her cousin, Delores Pennington, both of whom suffering with a surplus of luck of cash.

Gloria Grey is a woman of business. To quote her own words: "She has inherited all of her father's genius for clipping coupons but alas she has inherited no coupons to clip." Necessary to her, and her friend, whose husband is supposed to have died in Alaska, is housed under her roof, the object of her charity. Finally, word comes from the family of the supposed widow that a legacy is to be had if the widow will appear at the

BUT COAL STRIKE MAY PROFIT

Connellsville Operators Enough to Compensate for Loss of Coke Trade.
Prompt Furnace Coke Very Quiet and Pig Iron Market Stagnant.

From The Weekly Courier.
PITTSBURGH, March 25.—A contract has been closed for 13,000 tons of furnace coke a month over second quarter at $2.00. While this is 10 cents a ton below the price involved in the last sale reported, a week ago it merely represents what has been the minimum asking figure for a long time. A number of operators have lately been trying to get $2.10 for second quarter, but it appears that unless there are special circumstances, or the coke is of particularly high grade, this price cannot be secured.

The general tone of the market is a shade easier than a week ago. There are sellers now at $2.00 who were formerly insisting on $2.10 minimum. The coke market itself is in better position than two months ago for the operators are better fortified with contracts, one important interest in particular now having a comfortable line of contract business whereas formerly it had but limited sales.

The attitude of consumers, on the other hand, is distinctly less favorable. The prospects of the iron and steel trade are now regarded as distinctly unpromising. There are no furnace figures on getting out this week, while there is a question whether some now operating may not go out of blast shortly. Several merchant interests which have been insisting more or less for coke lately have expressed a desire to contract for April only rather than for the whole second quarter, giving as a reason for this preference that they are not certain to stay in blast through the quarter.

The strike on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania has retarded coke movement somewhat but has not seriously inconvenienced consumers. In several cases shippers have had to find other ways to ship, when coke in transit was tied up, but this has been accomplished with not much difficulty. The strike started last Friday but is now being broken by the importation of men and the trouble is likely to be entirely over by the end of the week since the union does not uphold the men.

Coke reaching Brownsville over the Monongahela railroad was held there for a time, as it could not move on to Pittsburgh over the Monongahela division, but it is now being shipped over the Erie or the South-west Penn or over the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie.

Yesterday's adjournment of the four-state conference at Chicago, trying to arrange a bituminous wage scale, apparently assures a suspension of mining in the union bituminous coal districts. Once started it is hardly likely the suspension would last less than a month. The Pittsburgh district mines have been operating at 75 to 80 per cent of their full capacity in the past fortnight, against a rate of not over 50 per cent in January, the increase being simply on account of demand for stockpiling purposes. Railroad and other consumers are probably fairly well provided for a suspension, but some of the Connellsville interests expect to find a demand for coal within a short time on account of the suspension, and they represent that on account of this expectation they are less anxious to sell coke at $2.00 than they otherwise would be.

The prompt furnace coke market has been quiet, with the general level of quotations unchanged. The market as a whole stands quotable as follows:

Prompt furnace	$1.90 to $2.00
Contract furnace	$2.00 to $2.10
Prompt foundry	$2.10 to $2.20
Contract foundry	$2.20 to $2.30

The local pig iron market has been almost absolutely stagnant in the past week. There have been no transactions in basic, while Bessemer has moved only in very small tonnages. Foundry iron has sold in carload to 100 ton lots. Former prices are still quoted as representing the market, but it has become a question whether on a round tonnage former quotations could not be abated. The quoted market stands as follows: Bessemer, $14.25; basic, $15.00; No. 2 foundry, $14.25; and malleable, $13.25; gray foundry, $12.75; at Valley furnaces, 90 cents higher delivered Pittsburgh.

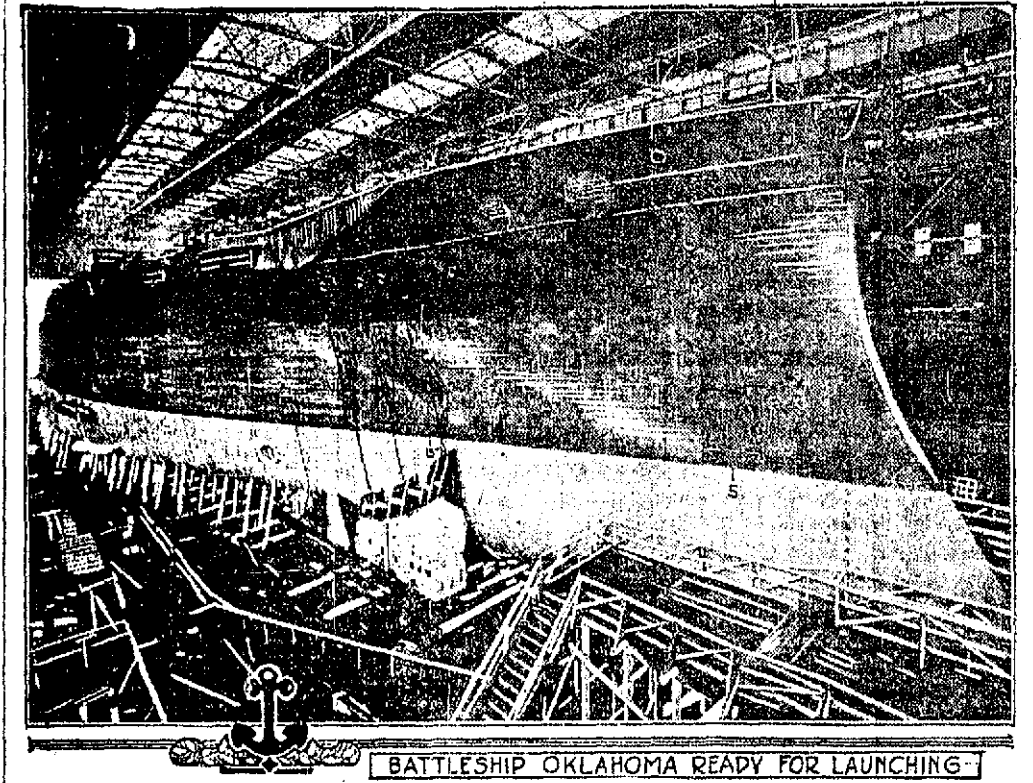

LOCAL DRUGGIST SAYS:
"TAKE ONLY ONE DOSE."
We want to tell those in Connellsville suffering from stomach or bowel trouble that we are agents for the simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., known as Adler's-Lax, the remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. This is the most thorough bowel cleanser known and just one dose relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation almost immediately. You will be surprised at the quick action of Adler's-Lax. F. H. Harnening, druggist, 512 West Main street—Add.

SUES MINERS' UNION.
Colorado Corporation Wants $1,000.
An American citizen has filed suit against the United Mine Workers of America, praying for $1,000 damages and personal judgment against John P. White, president, and Frank J. Hayes, vice president, and a number of other officials of the miners' union.

The company charges that its business is being injured through a combination of nine mine workers, this being the basis of the suit.

Dr. J. J. Gordon, a well-known Detroit physician says: "Musterole is invaluable in my practice and my home."

Another week of waiting has brought no tangible results in the iron and steel market. Intense quietness prevails in all departments of the market, as regards price business. There is some buying, but the total is almost negligible, especially for a season of the year when decided activity is normally expected.

The steel mills continue to operate at the rate of about 75% which they attained early in February, but there are suggestions here and there of slight decrease for the near future. It is well recognized that production and shipments are on the whole well in excess of incoming shipping orders, but in most departments there is sufficient of an accumulation of business to ensure operations at the present rate for a few weeks yet.

While industry is still very active as to the cause of the slowing down in the iron and steel market, there is a growing notion that possibly this quietness is due to a distinctly formed view on the part of buyers that prices are likely to be lower after a few weeks of waiting. In no quarter, certainly, is there expectation of higher prices in the immediate future, or until a considerable volume of additional backing business has been secured.

The opinion is frequently expressed that in the far part of April the market will definitely decline. There is a considerable volume of business, but it is not expected that it will be sufficient to keep prices from falling.

Our orders reported thus far this year total 32,000 tons, or at the rate of 160,000 tons a year, which is really very far from a bad showing, while it is an excellent one considering the present attitude of the railroads as regards purchases.

Roll production in 1913 has been reported at 3,512,750 gross tons, making a gain of 2.20% over 1912, but still a smaller tonnage than in 1906, 1907 or 1910.

Pig iron is very quiet, and present asking prices in some districts are probably largely nominal.

Wright-Metzler's is the Store to be depended on for the faithful presentation of ALL the newest fashions in varieties most gratifying to the many women of many preferences whose good tastes are to be indulged in the matter of dress to be Chosen for Easter Wear

FROM THE STORE'S Note-Book:

—A Woman's Hat, turban style, all black except for a snow white aigrette, sparkling with jet and modeled, as for a queen, created no little admiration among the women who viewed it Opening Day.

—Many women fell in love with a really flat hat bandeau trimmed with tulle and a minuet hat—Spring green—represented a distinctive style of the season with its moire ribbon standing straight up and on edge.

Children's Hats, mushroom shape, have long streamers of wide velvet or ribbon.

Millinery Room.

A Dress of wrinkly crepe is old blue, with dark red printings of polka-dot designs. It is ruffled, buttoned, lace-decorated—just such a style as would call up old-time memories of grandmother's girlhood days. Its price is $39.75.

Now, there's a shade of tan called "pig-skin." We have a crepe suit in this color-tone—a suit with wired silk collar and cuffs and a big bow of pig-skin tulle adorning the back. $29.75 is its price.

Here's a crepe wool suit with the jacket and lining each made of one piece of cloth and silk. The sleeves are kimono style; the skirt has two sweeping tiers. $29.75.

The oddest coat—therefore highly fashionable—looks for all the world like a cape with sleeves in it. Circular, 36 inches long, emerald green and of a newly named cloth resembling corduroy. The bottom and cuffs are of black tulle, shirred; the square collar is of plain black silk. Metal buttons add to its exclusiveness. Its price is $35.00.

—Coat collars—and coat patterns—what a riot of color! Roman and Bayadere stripes; high color suede; fancy silks and bright linings. Textures are in plaid check and plain effects—vivid or quiet-toned.

—Many people are admiring a waist of Georgette crepe—a cobwebby tissue of pure silk loomed in France, and so fine and delicate that yards of it would pass through a finger ring. The waist is plain.

—Expect to see crepe waists in delicate tints, ruffled and duffy—a billow of sheerness. White, pink, peach, flesh color, soft blue.

Second Floor.

—Girdle top corsets start at the waist line and go downward. The corset stock is made up of moderate to extreme models—a style for everybody. We are told that our variety of good corsets leads all the others in town.

Corsets—Second Floor.

—If there's a silk stocking color that we haven't in stock no one has asked for it yet—and the silk is of good quality and long wearing.
